In a photograph not yet taken

there you flatly are,
  among those never
  yet encountered.

  All of you insubstantial as dreams.

Rush about as you wish.
  It’s your appointment
    in Samara. Will

you look fat? Immaterial. Fixed on your

membrane forever, along a trillion strings
    of other fates.